Sex shame of former councillor

DAVID KIRTON

A FORMER Conservative councillor has been jailed for eight years and banned from working with children for life after admitting sexually assaulting a girl of 13.

David Kirton (55), of Longbanks, Harlow, became "infatuated" with the teenager and committed three sexual offences against her during an eight-month period last year, Chelmsford Crown Court was told.

Kirton, who won his seat in the Staple Tye ward at the local elections in May last year, sent text messages to the girl and spoke to her on the internet.

One of the messages he sent read: "Babe, you're a gorgeous

By COURT REPORTER
star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

woman."

Prosecuting counsel Chris Paxton told the court the three offences with which Kirton had been charged were committed between February 1 and October 6 last year.

In February Kirton told the girl he loved her and it was not long before he committed the first sexual assault at his house while his partner was out.

On another occasion the girl claimed to have been going out bowling but Kirton instead picked her up and returned to his house where he again sexually assaulted her.

The court heard that Kirton's partner had become suspicious after looking at text messages sent from his mobile phone, including one which read: "I cannot stop thinking about you."

She then contacted the girl's parents. When questioned about what had been going on, the girl became "tearful and upset" and said they had not had sexual intercourse, Mr Paxton continued.

Police were then contacted a few days later and Kirton gave himself up to them. When he went to Harlow Police Station on October 12, he told officers: "I am disappointed in myself," and "You know me, I am sorry."

Martyn Levett, representing Kirton, said in mitigation his client claimed that when the girl said she did not want him to carry out sexual acts, he stopped.

He added that Kirton was sorry for what he had done and said: "She was an affectionate girl - she hugged and kissed the defendant - and he became infatuated with her."

He said pictures and messages were sent from the girl's computer to Kirton and he had not bullied or threatened her into this particular activity.

Jailing Kirton on Monday, Judge Rodger Hayward Smith said his name would be added to the register of sex offenders, he would be banned from working with children for life and would also be made the subject of a sex prevention order.

"You must have known this was wholly wrong," said the judge. "Your offences are aggravated by the disparity in your ages."

Drivers foil cash snatch raiders by blocking their getaway car

DETECTIVES are praising the actions of motorists who thwarted two robbers as they attempted to make their getaway.

The drama unfolded at Bush Fair Post Office shortly after midday on Monday when the thieves grabbed a cash container from a security guard.

They then tried to flee the scene in a stolen Ford Escort but quick-thinking drivers blocked their route, forcing them to abandon the vehicle.

The stolen cash was recovered.

Two men from London, one aged 23 and the other 17, were subsequently arrested.

As the Star went to press police were still searching for a third man they believe to be involved.

Acting Detective Inspector Kev Shannon said: "The actions of the drivers in blocking in the van were of great assistance to us in finding and arresting two of the men we believe to be responsible for the robbery."

Anyone who witnessed the robbery or who has any information about the third man should call police on 0300 333 4444 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

MP becomes Minister for Armed Forces in reshuffle

HARLOW MP Bill Rammell has spoken of his delight at being handed a new post at the Ministry of Defence as part of Gordon Brown's Cabinet reshuffle.

Mr Rammell was given the role of Minister of State for the Armed Forces on Monday, just seven months after he was moved from the Department of Universities, Innovation and Skills to a ministerial post in the Foreign Office.

His new remit will include defence policy and planning, military operations and responsibility for the readiness, training, sustainability and performance of Britain's Armed Forces.

Despite his new responsibilities, Mr Rammell insisted his number one priority remained his Harlow constituents.

"While my first priority remains working as an active constituency MP in Harlow, I am delighted to have been appointed Minister of State for the Armed Forces," he said.

"It is a huge challenge and involves overseeing the withdrawal of troops from Iraq, ensuring we succeed in Afghanistan and ensuring we are effective at nation-building as well as defending ourselves, all things I know are vitally important to my constituents."

"Our armed forces are doing fantastic work in the most difficult of circumstances. And as the Armed Forces Minister I will be doing all that I can to support them and their families in these endeavours."

Poet is well-versed for library opening

KINGSMOOR: Children will have chance to enjoy the wonders of the written word in comfort after their newly refurbished library was officially opened during a week dedicated to literacy. Popular poet Kit Wright was invited to cut the ribbon to the area on Tuesday before a cake was cut to celebrate the occasion. During the five-day literary event pupils took part in a character dress-up day wearing outfits to represent their favourite book character.

Pupils given a vote in school mock election

THE DOWNS: Pupils were given a lesson in democracy when they took part in a mock election to coincide with Thursday's county council and European parliamentary ballots.

They learned about political parties and how they work before voting for candidates who had made a speech to the school and canvassed for support three days before the vote. Local councillor Linda Pailing then talked to the children about her role and what it was like to stand for election.

The Y Vote event was a national initiative supported by the Hansard Society and the BBC's Newsround programme to develop children's understanding of democracy. Pictured are Tayla Mitchell, Christine Madge, Ruvimbo Chimanikire and Ryan Baker.

History week shines a light on the past

ST ALBANS: Pupils took a trip back in time when they explored the world of the Tudors as part of a history week. As well as wearing period costume for Tuesday's event, they were treated to practical workshops in which they had the chance to show off their acting skills and demonstrate to their classmates what they had learned in a series of theatre workshops.

Prosecution threat to store over knife sale

A HOME furnishings and garden store has been warned it could be prosecuted after selling a knife to a person under the age of 18.

The Range, in Edinburgh Way, Harlow, is under investigation following an undercover joint operation by police and Essex County Council's trading standards team.

It was one of five stores across the county to fail the latest crackdown.

Young volunteers were sent into 40 shops which had previously fallen foul of

By LIZ HARRIS
star@hertsexnews.co.uk

purchasing exercises to see if they had tightened up their procedures.

The Range was one of five stores where the cashier sold a bladed item to someone under the age of 18.

Stores had previously been warned that children would be taking part in mystery shopper-style visits to make sure staff were following regulations regarding the sale of knives.

Peter Stratton, operation manager for Essex County Council's trading standards unit, said he was disappointed with the result.

"The sale of knives to children is something that can affect the whole community and the consequences can be devastating," he said.

"Quite simply, we will not tolerate underage knife sales and the punishment will be severe for anybody caught doing so.

"We have done everything in our power to support and advise businesses to help them prevent making underage knife sales. It is about time they started taking this issue as seriously as we do."

Police inspector Kevin Whipps added: "We work with retailers and all their cashiers to ask for identification from anyone who appears to be under the age of 18.

"We regularly check that they are maintaining these checks and taking action when these are lapsed.

"We are pleased that Essex does not have a knife crime problem but we are not complacent and will do everything we can to make sure it stays that way."

A spokeswoman for The Range said the company was unable to comment because the investigation was ongoing.

College and union agree settlement in jobs row

A GROUP of lecturers who launched a legal battle against Harlow College after they lost their jobs during an overhaul of the teaching structure have settled their dispute.

The action had been spearheaded by two lecturers, James Meadows and Paul Hughes, who challenged the way dismissal procedures were handled following industrial action in 2007.

They were seeking various claims for compensation for themselves and others at an employment tribunal in London. But a resumption of the hearing was cancelled after an agreement was reached through the conciliatory service ACAS.

A joint statement released by the college and the University and College Union said a settlement had been reached "in the best interests of the college and of its staff and students."

It went on: "The college regrets restructuring resulted in the loss of valuable staff in significantly greater numbers that would have been or was intended."

Upwards of 79 jobs were lost either through redundancy or because lecturers were unwilling to be a part of principal Colin Hindmarch's teaching and learning strategy, which provoked rallies and five days of strike action by the University and College Union.

Mr Meadows had earlier told the tribunal panel he had been devastated when told he was losing his job

"The news appalled me," he said. "It was difficult going back into the classroom and later I broke down at home."

He claimed he had been targeted because of his trade union activity.

As part of the agreement, discussions with recognised unions will take place to establish provisions for any future similar change.

Drug accused faces retrial after jurors fail to agree

A WOMAN who blamed her boyfriend for drugs found at the flat they shared faces a retrial after jurors failed to reach a verdict.

Chelmsford Crown Court was told police found 1.8 kilos of cannabis and other drugs paraphernalia when they raided the flat Natasha James lived in with her boyfriend, Michael Steele.

James, of Parish Way, Harlow, pleaded not guilty to possessing cannabis with intent to supply.

Giving evidence, she said she had gone out shopping and that none of the items were in the flat when she left.

When interviewed by police after being arrested, she said Steele must have taken the items to the flat after she had gone out.

Steele has since been dealt with but jurors failed to reach a verdict regarding James.

A retrial is now scheduled to take place on September 7. James was granted unconditional bail.

Sniffer dogs join pub and club patrols

FOUR people were arrested when police officers with sniffer dogs joined council teams to tackle drug abuse among late-night revellers.

The dogs were taken to 10 pubs and clubs in Harlow on Friday night.

The four arrests were for drug-related offences. Various items associated with drug abuse were also found.

The operation was funded by the Safer Harlow Partnership.

Inspector Tom Mitchell thanked the management and staff of the clubs and pubs for allowing the dogs onto their premises.

"This is just one of a number of initiatives being introduced during the next few months to help support the night-time economy and ensure Harlow remains a safe place to socialise," he said

Nick Churchill, chairman of Harlow Council's licensing committee, added: "This is a regular exercise we carry out with the co-operation of local premises, which helps cut down drug misuse in the town."

"It will send out a warning to all those who are thinking about bringing drugs with them on a night out in Harlow."

MP voices concern for distribution firm jobs

THE plight of a newspaper and magazine distribution firm where more than 100 jobs are at risk was put under the spotlight during a visit by Harlow MP Bill Rammell on Friday.

Dawson News, in Roydon Road, has lost a series of contracts to distribute newspapers and magazines due to changes within the industry.

Mr Rammell is one of dozens of MPs who are now putting pressure on the Office of Fair Trading to investigate the situation as a matter of urgency.

"I am extremely concerned about any decision which threatens jobs in Harlow and I will continue to press until the Government and OFT respond to my concerns," said Mr Rammell.

"My visit on Friday just clarified what a valuable facility they run in Harlow and I am fighting to protect this."

Chief executive Peter Harris, said: "It is increasingly clear that the current situation not only puts Dawson jobs at risk, but also threatens the future of independent newsagents."

"I would like to reassure everyone that we are doing all that we can to safeguard the livelihood of all of our employees in Harlow and across the rest of the UK"

Hunt continues for elusive peacock on a break from school

A PEACOCK has spent days roaming free in Harlow after it was thought to have been chased from its pen.

Staff from Passmores School have been involved in a rescue mission following the disappearance of George, who has lived in the grounds of the Tending Road campus for four years.

He was spotted in the gardens of houses in Finchmoor last Wednesday and Thursday but is still on the loose.

Passmores headteacher Vic Goddard said: "The kids love him and so do the staff so we want him back, but every time we get a call to say he has been spotted he has already moved or goes up a tree and can't be reached.

"We think he was chased away by students from another school and we have it on camera but we can't prove anything. It's a shame a part of the school's heritage has gone but we are confident he will return."

The school has kept peacocks, which have a staple diet of grubs and seeds, for the past 20 years. Caretakers have tried to catch it by throwing a blanket over its head but to no avail.

Mr Goddard added: "The caretakers are on alert and I'm sure they will catch him but he is extremely nimble. We don't want to hurt him so we will take our time."

High Court rejects garage flats appeal

A PROTRACTED fight to convert two garages at a Grade II listed country house in Gilston into apartments has ended in defeat at the High Court.

City & Country Residential Ltd had hoped to secure planning permission for the scheme at Gilston Park House, which has already been converted into 14 flats, three years after the plans were originally rejected by East Herts District Council.

An appeal against the council's decision was turned down by a Government planning inspector, but that decision was quashed by the High Court on the grounds that the inspector's reasoning was unclear.

The case was then sent back to be reconsidered by a different inspector in June last year, but the appeal was rejected for a second time. However, City & Country argued the inspector failed to provide reasons for rejecting the possibility that land usage could be controlled by planning conditions.

On Monday the High Court ruled against the company. Judge Ian Dove said: "I have no doubt the claimant was bitterly disappointed by the decision which was reached but, having considered carefully the grounds which have been raised, I can discern no error of law in the inspector's decision and thus this claim must fail."

WHO KILLED KERRY?

Teenagers accused on flat are cleared

THE six-week trial of two teenagers accused of murdering a young woman in an arson attack on a block of flats collapsed on Friday when the prosecution decided to drop the case against them.

The hearing at Chelmsford Crown Court came to a sudden end following the evidence of a key prosecution witness.

By COURT REPORTER
star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

The 15-year-old girl – who was 11 at the time of the fire on May 4, 2005 – only told police two years later about her recollections of the event.

But under questioning in court last week she admitted she could not recall what had taken place on the night of the blaze.

Her statement appeared to be the final straw for the prosecution, which had already had to contend with complex evidence casting doubt on the guilt of the accused.

As a result, Carl Manton (18), of Long Banks, Harlow, and a 17-year-old youth who cannot be named for legal reasons walked free from court after the proceedings were halted.

It is estimated the court case cost in the region of £2m.

During the course of the trial it had been alleged the two teenagers – who were aged 13 and 14 at the time – had deliberately started a fire in a flat at Sherwood House, Bush Fair.

Living in the flat above were Kerry Youngs (24) and her boyfriend Kevin Chapple (now 32). The couple were pulled unconscious from the building by firefighters but Miss Youngs died in hospital two days later while Mr Chapple was left with irreversible brain damage and needs round-the-clock care.

The defendants both denied charges of murder, manslaughter, grievous bodily harm and arson with intent to endanger life and being reck-

THE mother of the young man left permanently disabled in the arson attack which killed his girlfriend has told the Star she has almost given up on the culprits ever being brought to justice.

Marian Chapple was speaking following the collapse of the trial of the two teenagers accused of murdering Kerry Youngs and causing grievous bodily harm to her son, Kevin.

"I don't know if we will ever get to the truth," Mrs Chapple said on Monday. "In a fire a lot of evidence gets lost and the longer it goes on the harder it is to piece together. We live in hope but I think it is going to be difficult."

Kevin, who is now 32, was at the hearing on Friday and broke down after the case collapsed.

He was with Kerry on the night the flat below them was firebombed, causing toxic smoke to fill their apartment.

They were pulled

'I don't know if we will ever get to the truth ...'

unconscious from the building by fire crews but Kerry died two days later and Kevin was left with irreversible brain damage.

During the trial the prosecution claimed that the fire had been started deliberately as part of a campaign of bullying against the flat's occupant, Darren Satchwell.

Mrs Chapple said the police had "tried their best" and did not fault the investigation but said it was difficult for officers because so many lies had been told. "We knew all along this was going to be dicey because some of the witness statements were very poor. There's so much involved and people are scared. So many lies have been told and the police have had to follow so many false leads but they have done everything they can.

"I think the police behaved admirably, our barrister was brilliant and the judge was extremely fair. There are so many lies and so much skulduggery and evil that has gone on around that area.

"I have to hope God will do whatever He can and I hope they will be caught, but the punishment will never be enough."

She added: "Kevin remembers everything that happened to Kerry that night and he has had to live with that and the terror of that night inside his head for the past four years. It's horrendous what he has had to live with.

"It has been a nightmare for all involved and the suffering caused because of this is impossible to describe. No words can do justice to how we and Kerry's family feel. Evil tends to surround good and our children were good children. They were hardworking and honest people and this should have never happened to them."

It is understood police were due to visit Mrs Chapple and her family on Tuesday to go over the turn of events and discuss the way forward.

Also in the dock were a 40-year-old woman and a 37-year-old man. Both denied committing acts tending or intending to pervert the course of justice by making a false statement about one of the boys' whereabouts.

A 15-year-old girl also denied making a false statement to police.

As the five defendants were freed, a relative of Miss Youngs sitting in the public gallery pointed at the two boys and shouted: "I'll see you again".

Prosecution evidence 'evaporated' says judge

THE trial judge, in his final statement, said the evidence against the defendants evaporated when it was presented to the court.

Mr Justice Ian Burnett said the fire had been started deliberately and added: "Throughout this trial the families of both victims have paid close attention to the proceedings. "They no doubt hoped that the trial would deliver an answer to the question of who was responsible for the fire after four years of uncertainty, but it has not done so. That inevitably compounds their suffering.

"The CCTV footage shows at least four people and probably six who are likely to have been involved in the fire leaving the scene hurriedly. None has been identified but they could not be the 17 year-old or Carl Manton.

"There are many people in Bush Fair and its surrounding area who must know what happened that night. It is deeply disturbing that they have not come forward to provide information which identifies the culprits.

"I have no doubt everyone in this court feels a deep sense of sympathy for Kevin Chapple and both families whose tragedy has been at the heart of the proceedings."

Police chief: We will bring those responsible to justice

THE detective investigating the arson attack at Sherwood House has spoken of his determination to bring those responsible for the blaze to justice.

Detective Superintendent Tim Wills made his pledge following the dramatic turn of events at Chelmsford Crown Court on Friday.

"This has been a long and complex investigation," he said.

"Essex Police and the Crown Prosecution Service recognised from the outset that it was to be a challenging prosecution.

However, we believed and still believe that it was right for the evidence to be tested before a jury.

"The jury has heard evidence for five weeks. Some key evidence failed the test.

"Throughout the trial the CPS and the police have been continually keeping the situation under review and agreed that the case should now end.

"We will continue to review the evidence and consider carefully the comments of the trial judge before deciding on the way forward. It remains our aim to establish the truth and bring those responsible for this devastating incident to justice."

He added: "Our thoughts are very much with the victims and their families whom we will continue to support through this ongoing investigation."

The decision to drop the case was explained later in an official statement from the Crown Prosecution Service, which stated it had conceded there was no longer a realistic prospect of a conviction.

A CPS spokesman added: "It is very rare for this to occur but sometimes circumstances change, especially when the alleged offence took place four years ago.

ABOVE: The scene of the fatal fire at Sherwood House, Bush Fair, in May 2005.

"Over the course of the prosecution case, witnesses evidence has become distorted or their recollection has faltered. "Our sympathies are with the family of Kerry Youngs and, especially her partner Kevin Chapple, who has suffered permanent brain damage as a result of this incident."

Defendant calls for a review of files

ONE of the teenagers accused of starting the blaze has called for an independent review of the police investigation.

A statement released on behalf of Carl Manton after he walked free said: "He is, and always has been, innocent of the offences with which he was charged. The police investigation in this case fell far below what we should expect from our police service.

"Mistakes made at the outset had a major effect upon the direction of the investigation. Indeed, those mistakes were repeated when the details of the case were released on the BBC's Crimewatch television programme.

"Wholly wrong explanations of the features of the e-fits of the perpetrators were broadcast nationally in 2005.

"Due to the wrong direction the police were taking, evidence they had uncovered and which was contained in the files, which may have led them to the real offenders, was either ignored or played down. Evidence that may have put the police on the right track was misinterpreted or not followed through."

The statement said it was "impossible" for Mr Manton to have been the culprit and said he had been put through an unnecessary ordeal which resulted in the real offenders remaining free and the victims and their families not getting the justice they deserve.

It concluded: "Mr Manton hopes that a review of the police files is undertaken by an outside police force and that the real offenders are eventually brought to justice.

"He is now looking forward to spending time with family and friends following the 10 months he has spent in custody on remand."

Cannabis baron told to pay up or spend more time in prison

A MAN who ran two large-scale cannabis factories in Harlow and Bishop's Stortford has been ordered to pay more than £175,000 following a hearing under the Proceeds of Crime Act.

Simon Hang (34), formally of Simplicity Lane, Harlow, is currently serving a five-year prison sentence after being found guilty of the production of cannabis and of abstracting electricity in 2007.

On Friday he was told that if he failed to pay the sum he would serve an additional two-and-a-half years behind bars and still be required to repay the money with interest added on.

St Albans Crown Court was told Hang's cannabis factory was discovered in 2006 after police became suspicious of activity at a property in Bishop's Stortford. Officers found more than 500 cannabis plants estimated to be worth £10,000.

Investigations revealed Hang was linked to the property and he was arrested. Further inquiries linked him to another property in Silvesters, Harlow, where cannabis plants with an estimated value of £50,000 were found.

A financial investigation was launched and Hang was found to have benefited by more than £1.2m from his drug and other criminal activities.

The outstanding amount of over £1m will remain on file and can be recovered should Hang obtain property in the future.

Jailed burglar admits a further 58 offences

A BURGLAR owned up to a further 58 offences after being jailed for three years.

Ian Scott (22), of Canons Brook, Harlow, wanted to clear up matters before being released from prison, Chelmsford Crown Court was told on Friday.

Recorder Martyn Levett QC said it was likely the judge at Scott's original trial would have imposed a sentence of four-and-a-half years if he had known about all the offences.

But he said he would only impose an extra nine months which would result in the defendant being released slightly later than the original sentence.

Scott admitted two charges of burglary and asked for 56 similar offences to be taken into consideration.

Mark Lakin, prosecuting, said Scott approached officers after being jailed for three years for five burglaries and showed them the locations of his other offences.

Cyrus Shrow, representing Scott, said in mitigation: "But for his admissions and taking the police to the premises, they would have remained undetected crimes."

Benefits cheat 'did not know wife worked at care home'

A BENEFITS cheat who falsely claimed £18,000 has been given a suspended prison sentence.

Stephen Pavitt (53), of Hookfield, Harlow, had claimed he did not know his wife was working but a court heard he used to drop her off at work dressed in her uniform.

John Caudle, prosecuting at Chelmsford Crown Court on behalf of the Department of Works and Pensions, said Pavitt claimed income support in February 2000 and also received housing and council tax benefit. But when his wife later got a job he failed to disclose it and carried on receiving support for 117 weeks.

Mr Caudle said Pavitt's wife, who left him in May 2007, worked from February 2005 at an Essex County Council care home, a job for which she had to wear a blue uniform. Sometimes he would take her to work and pick her up.

"In interview Pavitt said he had no idea she had been working and denied seeing her in uniform," said Mr Caudle.

Stephen Rose, representing Pavitt, said in mitigation that when he first made his claim for support it was legitimate. He was still receiving income support because he remained substantially impaired by a disability.

"This was not a case which resulted in a lavish lifestyle but at the time the marriage was under considerable strain," said Mr Rose.

He said that Pavitt was now paying back the vast majority of the overpayment.

Judge Peter Fenn said Pavitt, who had pleaded guilty to two offences of failing to notify a change of circumstances, had deliberately deceived by claiming the benefits.

He was sentenced to six months in jail suspended for 18 months, made the subject of a 7pm-7am curfew for three months and told to attend an education training and employment course for 25 days. He was also to pay £500 in costs.

Correction

WE have been asked to point that in last week's report of Harlow firm Orchard Stationery's celebrations to mark 25 years in business, we misspelt the name of the company. We apologise for this error.

Labour routed in county elections

JUBILANT Conservatives in Harlow are celebrating a clean sweep after the party won all of the town's seats on Essex County Council.

In a disastrous night for Labour which left it with just one seat at County Hall, it lost control of the Harlow North and Harlow West divisions to the Tories who also held Harlow South East.

In Harlow North, sitting Labour councillor Paul Sztumpf lost out to Conservative candidate Mike Garnett by 460 votes while the former Labour stronghold of Harlow West succumbed to the Tory challenge of Lee Dangerfield and Guy Mitchinson.

Across town in Harlow South East, sitting Conservative councillor Eddie Johnson retained his seat with a sizeable majority of 973 votes over Labour's Mike Danvers.

Although the turnout in the Harlow district was a disappointing 36.76 per cent, fears the British National Party would capitalise on voter apathy proved unfounded as the far-right group could only muster enough votes to finish fourth in each division.

Delighted Harlow West victor Lee Dangerfield told the Star: "It's a great feeling to have secured a seat on the county council."

By CHRIS MOSS
mosscc@hertssexnews.co.uk

"I think the results of these elections – not just in Essex but all over the country – have sent a clear message to Gordon Brown that people are not happy with how the country is being run."

But disappointed Labour candidate Tony Durcan blamed his party's defeat on the low turnout and said residents had voted on national rather than local issues.

"It's a real shame that people have seemingly ignored the important local issues – like the fact the Tories plan to privatise and close down schools in our area – and have clearly based their voting on what is happening in Westminster instead."

The political balance at County Hall is now Conservative 60, Liberal Democrats 12, Labour 1, Independent 1, Independent Loughton Residents Association 1.

● FORMER Harlow Council leader Richard Howitt retained his status as a Labour Euro MP for the East of England region in the elections for the European Parliament.

The Conservatives won three of the region's seven seats, with the UK Independence Party winning two, Liberal Democrats one and Labour one.

PALS raise the profile of patients' support team

STAFF from Princess Alexandra Hospital's Patient Advice and Liaison Service were out and about in Harlow all this week promoting the benefits of the service as it enters its ninth successful year of operation. Originally set up in 2000 to provide advice and support to patients, relatives and carers and act as a guide to all health-related services available on the NHS, the PALS team provides an essential link between patients and the hospital.

Yvonne Blucher, executive director of nursing and patient care for the PAH Trust, said: "They are there to provide a confidential, on-the-spot advice and support service."

"Hundreds of issues have been resolved quickly and satisfactorily by the team and they also identify trends and opportunities to improve services. They have proved to be key in helping us improve patients' experiences in hospital."

Police said his body had been struck by several vehicles.

A spokesman for Essex Police said an investigation into the incident is ongoing.

Gang's threat leaves cabbie out of pocket

A CAB driver was threatened by a group of five passengers who demanded he drive them to Enfield before running off without paying the fare.

The 32-year-old victim picked up the men – described as white, aged between 20 and 25 and with strong Irish accents – from the Total garage in Kitson Way, Harlow, at around 3am on Saturday.

They agreed a price for the journey but said they needed to visit a cash machine on the way.

Soon after they set off, one of the gang pressed something into the neck of the driver and demanded he take them to Enfield.

When they arrived at their destination they ran off, leaving the driver shocked but otherwise uninjured.

Anyone with information about the identity of the gang should contact detectives at Harlow police on 0300 333 4444 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Teenager heads for Korean peace camp

THE granddaughter of a Korean War veteran has been picked to take part in a once-in-a-lifetime experience on the other side of the world.

Antonina Stocker (16), of Berecroft, Harlow, has been chosen as one of only 20 students to represent the UK at the United Nations Teenager Peace Camp in Korea.

Antonina, a sixth form student at St Mark's School, was selected after her grandfather, Raymond, was contacted by the Korean government about the camp which is held for first-born grandchildren of service men and women who fought in the Korean War.

"I am really excited as it will be my first time abroad," she said. "My granddad is really excited for me, too. He has given me some books and a film to watch before I go out there so I know what to expect."

The week-long camp, which takes place this month, will give the students the opportunity to visit cultural events and war cemeteries as well as learn basic Korean.

Antonina learned she had been picked for the camp in an email. "On it there were the names of the people who had been chosen so we added each other on MSN to get to know each other. It will make it a lot easier when we get there. There are a few people who seem nice."

The trip includes flights, hotel accommodation and official events, with participants only needing to take spending money

Hospital staff celebrate learning achievements

The PAH NHS Trust has signed up to a Learning Agreement and Skills Pledge which, together with the support of trade unions and local training providers, has created learning opportunities for staff at all levels.

Sylvia Hayes, staff side secretary, said: "The trust has developed strong partnership working to help staff access learning and this event has been organised to celebrate and recognise individual and joint achievement at all levels of the organisation."

Nurses praised for dedication

They were among six top prizewinners and 19 other winners to be honoured at the trust's first ever awards ceremony.

They were shortlisted from 68 nominees out of the trust's 786 nursing staff. Paul Keedwell, director of nursing, said: "There are a number of national competitions which recognise nurses but this year the trust wanted to recognise its own best nurses with an internal competition."

"The response from our staff was heartwarming, with a flood of accolades from managers about staff dedication, hard work and skill coming in from all corners."

Letters to the Editor

Political system needs a complete overhaul

SIR, For someone anticipating becoming an MP, the paucity of ambition demonstrated by Robert Halfon for reforming our outmoded political system is concerning (Letters, June 4). His proposals are, to say the least, inadequate to achieve what is needed. A priority must be to move to system of proportional representation for the whole of the United Kingdom and not just in Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland, both nationally and locally.

Parliaments should be for fixed four-year terms with set dates for polling. For local authorities it should be three set years.

The House of Lords must be fully elected, again by PR and for fixed terms.

In Parliament, committees should have real teeth with members elected, not appointed by the whips, and show real independence of mind to hold ministers and departments to account.

At present, ministers are drawn only from elected MPs and continuously switch jobs. We should adopt the system used in Sweden, France and the United States where ministers and key executives in the Government can be drawn from outside parliament from business, industry, the unions, academia or from other parties – experts in their fields, not amateurs picked only from party ranks for their loyalty by the Prime Minister's patronage and beholden to him.

Antiquated traditions, procedures and manners of the House should be replaced by procedures and systems suitable for managing an organisation capable of dealing with the complexities of government in the 21st century.

The traditions of party politics so loved by politicians and disliked by the voters have no place in our time. And our politicians must take the political agenda back from the press and media. Stand up against a media obsessed by trivia and personal frailty with neither the capability or interest in debating real issues.

It is surely a disgrace to our long tradition of democracy that what we have seen over the past 20 years is trial by media and mob rule. Without drastic change to the ethos and practices of the British political system, many of us unaligned voters have little or no incentive to participate in balloting.

Pride in town dented by support for BNP

SIR, Having lived in Harlow for the past 15 years I have always been proud of this town and have had no time for anyone who wishes to criticise the place.

That pride has been badly dented when, on Friday, I checked the election results and found that 2,774 fellow citizens had voted for the BNP.

I feel ashamed that at the same time that we are celebrating 65 years since the D-Day landings which lead directly to the defeat of fascism, there are many within our community who would like to see a fascist government.

Presumably the people who voted BNP on Thursday had fathers or grandfathers who fought in the Second World War – one of my grandfathers was present at the liberation of Belsen concentration camp – and they would have witnessed the horrors of fascism at first hand. They would be deeply ashamed to know that their offspring had voted for the BNP.

Too many ordinary people have bought into an idiotic line of argument promoted in much of the tabloid press that Britain is going to the dogs and that immigrants, asylum seekers and Europe are to blame.

These are challenging times for sure but our lives are better and more comfortable than our parents and grandparents before them and any immigrant who pays tax and helps share the burden of paying for our hospitals and schools should be thanked.

Will Harlow Tories ignore party's planning policy?

SIR, It is disappointing that Conservative-led Harlow Council has supported the judicial review decision on the East of England Plan and continues to argue for the imposition of regional housing growth targets on Harlow and the surrounding districts.

I recognise that the council has long argued for significant growth, but recently David Cameron has made it very clear at his Cameron Direct meetings that should the Conservatives win the next election he will "roll up the regional spatial strategies and put them in the bin".

He announced in February that an incoming Conservative government would abolish regional planning, revoke all regional spatial strategies (including regional building targets) and repeal the national planning guidance that relates to regional planning.

The Conservatives also stated they would enable councils to revise their existing Local Development Frameworks to take account of the abolition of regional spatial strategies.

Conservative Party chairman Eric Pickles has clearly stated that if the regional spatial strategies have already been implemented, they will allow councils to revise their local plans to undo the changes that the Regional Spatial Strategy forced on them. This will allow local communities to protect their local environment and decide for themselves the most appropriate level of development for their area. It will allow Harlow Council to protect its green wedges and East Herts Council to protect Green Belt north of Harlow.

Will the Conservative councillors on Harlow Council and the four newly elected Conservative county councillors for Harlow actually stand by Conservative policy on these matters and the national platform on which they were elected? Or, now they have won their seats, do they intend to pick and choose which party policies to support? Nigel Clark, secretary STOP Harlow North High Street, Hunsdon

Sixty-five years ago our grandfathers defended freedom and justice against fascism. Now it is our turn to defend these values against the narrow-minded xenophobes who hide behind the public dislike of foreigners, from the fascists of the BNP through to UKIP and the Europe-hating Conservative party.

Lib Dems showed a lack of respect

SIR, Further to your report "Snubbed Lib-Dems in blast at 'petty' Tories" (Star, June 4th), as council chairman I had to remain impartial and silent on party politics. The office of chairman is an essential constitutional role without which the council cannot function. So it is important the office commands respect from all councillors and parties, regardless of whether they personally like the individual occupying that office. If the chairman does not properly fulfil the role, a vote can be taken that he or she vacates the chair.

While there is no rule that councillors stand when the chairman enters the chamber, this has always been acknowledged as respect for the office and the rules and procedures of the council. Without that respect, meetings could descend into anarchy. Councillors unwilling to acknowledge this surely have no business being in the chamber as part of our democratic process. At the annual council, my summary of my year as chairman would not have been complete without comment on the conduct of council meetings. I said the standard of debate had improved and councillors' behaviour had been good, except that certain councillors had refused to stand when I entered the chamber. I said this mattered not to me as an individual but did show lack of respect for the office I held.

I also said I'd had to admonish a councillor for publishing his intent to make unwarranted claims for taxi fares for his one kilometre journeys to and from the Civic Centre to avoid having to pay for parking. I did not name the councillors concerned but they are Liberal Democrats, one of whom then began shouting abuse at me. I also commented on the behaviour of Liberal Democrat councillor Lorna Spenceley when she was council chairwoman and I was her vice chairman. At this point councillor Chris Millington, leader of the Liberal Democrat group, also began shouting. Coupled with the behaviour from his other members, this demonstrates just why his group are unfit to hold the office of chairman.

If they have no respect for the office, why would they want, or deserve, to hold it?

Vote of thanks from county councillors

SIR, May I, through the columns of the Star, thank the 2,939 people of Harlow West who voted for me in Thursday's county council elections.

To be elected to any public office is a great honour and I am very mindful of the trust and confidence that has been placed in me. I cannot promise to solve every problem or resolve an issue to everyone's satisfaction – that is simply not possible – and it would be dishonest to suggest otherwise – but I can promise to be a hard-working and conscientious representative for Harlow West.

I would also like to thank the people of Harlow for their courtesy these past few weeks. It has been a torrid time for those of us engaged in politics but local residents have been willing to give us lowly foot soldiers a fair hearing and for that I am very grateful.

Guy Mitchinson
Joyners Field, Harlow

SIR, May I, through your letters page send a big thank you to all the electors who voted for me in the county council elections for Harlow West.

As I pledged in my election literature, county council surgeries will shortly take place and I will maintain regular contact with residents to keep them informed. I am committed to being a strong and effective voice for Harlow West residents at County Hall.

I am here to serve all the residents of Harlow West whatever the political view so please contact me if you have any related county issues and I will do my utmost to help you.

A clear message was sent to Gordon Brown on Thursday that enough is enough. The people of Harlow West want a general election now.

Walk this way for a fantastic night out

NINE days and counting – that's how long there is to go until the start of this year's Midnight Walk in aid of St Clare Hospice.

With registration due to close tomorrow (Friday), the good news is that more people have signed up to take part than last year.

And if you don't want to miss out on what promises to be a great night out, there is still time to get your application in. But you will have to be quick.

You can do so in one of two ways – by ringing the Midnight Walk hotline on (01279) 773759 or by logging on to www.stclare-hospice.co.uk/midnightwalk.

As the Star went to press, organisers confirmed the number of people who will be taking part this year is more than 1,400 – beating the 1,300 figure at last year's inaugural event.

That means it is on course to reach the fundraising target of £120,000. And that will happen if every walker taking part raises £65.

The 10km walk, which starts in Harlow town centre, will follow a carefully planned and marshalled route along the town's streets and cycle paths.

It is open to both men and women, as well as children aged over 14. Those aged 14 and 15 must be accompanied by a responsible adult who is registered to take part in the walk.

In-patient unit relies on sponsorship cash

THE importance of the Midnight Walk in raising money for St Clare Hospice has been underlined this week by in-patient unit manager Alison Kempthorne.

"We are running at capacity as an in-patient unit and seeing a range of patients each with very different needs," said Alison, pictured above.

"Most people think that if someone is admitted to the hospice they will die there but that isn't always the case. Last year around 50 per cent of patients who came to stay here returned home after a matter of days, having been assessed and received the specialist symptom management we provide.

"Half of our in-patients will choose to spend their last days here but they do so because they know they will be safe and have the support they need, when they need it most."

The in-patient unit at St Clare only has eight bedrooms but last year the unit cared for over 180 people from the local area.

"We not only care for the patients that come to us but also their friends and families, so in actual fact you could say we supported two or three times that number last year," said Alison.

"Our work is continually evolving and as we see younger patients they have very different needs to perhaps much older patients. Our multi-disciplinary team made up of specialist doctors, nurses, counsellors and chaplains work together to assist all those involved at what is a difficult time.

"The in-patient unit is a bright place where sad things do happen but we do have laughs and smiles and pride ourselves in being able to help patients live the life they have left.

"We can only do this with support and sponsorship, as our services cost £2.5m to run each and every year."

Teachers' strike hits schools

Over 1,000 children were sent home from Burnt Mill School and Stewards School as 27 teachers staged a half-day strike. A further 1,700 children were affected when Mark Hall and Netteswell schools were closed.

Hotpants provide a footnote in tale of Footman

THIS week's trip down memory lane leads us back to the popular Harlow pub the Orange Footman – later renamed Peels – which first featured on this page a few weeks ago.

Following on from Mick and Betty Westby's story of how their chance encounter at the pub ended in wedding bells, we have now heard from former barmaid Jackie Shinn who has contacted the Star to share her memories.

"I worked at the pub when it first opened," she writes. "I remember Maureen [the landlady] and her husband Hugh. My son was six weeks old when I started in the pub and Maureen had a daughter who was the same age as my son.

"It had a great atmosphere and was very popular. Some of the staff I worked with were Lyn, Annette and Jeff. I remember

News Editor

Jeff as I had never done bar work before and he taught me the tricks of the trade.

"One night I went into work wearing hot pants and which bar you worked in was dependant on what you wore. This particular night I was put in the middle bar so those at the lower bar would get a good view of my legs!

"We used to have some great parties there after hours but I don't recall there ever being trouble there!

"I was surprised that it was never rebuilt after the fire as it was the only pub in the area at the time. I know when it was still boarded up it was quite an unsavory place.

"I have fond memories of the place as it was the first bar I worked in after my marriage split up and it gave me a lot of confidence."

Adventures in play land

REGULAR readers may recall we ran a piece about the adventure playground at Foldcroft which children from the town helped to build.

We have now sourced a photograph of the creation courtesy of the Museum of Harlow. It was taken in 1967 and shows two children playing on the cargo net climbing platform and zip wire.

If you have any memories of playing at the centre why not drop us a line and share them.

Hermit's hideaway

SOME of you will no doubt have been to the cinema to see the hit new film Night At The Museum 2. But just for a minute stop and think what it would be like to live alone in a museum with nothing but exhibitions and artefacts for company.

For one London artist – Ansuman Biswas, pictured right – that dream will soon become a reality when he moves into Manchester Museum's spooky Gothic-styled tower for 40 days and 40 nights.

He has been hired as a hermit – a wise man who lives in isolation without any luxuries – and will spend his days studying the artefacts currently not available to the public to view.

Ansuman will stay in a dark and dusty old storage room with nothing but pipes and shelves running along the walls and a simple kitchen and bathroom downstairs. He will have no contact with the outside world other than through an internet blog on which he will post messages every day.

Amazingly, it will not be the first time Ansuman has lived in complete isolation. Back in 2002 he spent a weekend holed up in a cave in Staffordshire.

His stay in the museum

may sound like great fun to some but it also has an important aim. Each day he will look at a different exhibit from the museum's vast collection and try to piece together the story behind it. Who knows – they may even come alive!

Stages set for music festival

By CHRIS MOSS
mossc@hertsexnews.co.ukSONG AND DANCE: Helping to organise the Midsummer Music festival in Harlow town centre are, left to right, Phil Dale, Richard Holgarth, Richard Dennerly and Adam Smith

With four stages showcasing the very best in music, dance and theatre, the organisers of this year's Midsummer Music event are confident it will be the best yet.

The line-up will draw on the wealth of talented local musicians, dancers and performers to celebrate the town's burgeoning contemporary arts scene.

Scheduled to coincide with the exhibition of proposals for the regeneration of the town centre, the festival kicks off with music in Market Square on July 11 and continues throughout the afternoon, with acoustic sets taking place in the Harvey Centre and two stages in The Water Gardens.

Home-grown acts featured on the bill include recent winners of The Square's Rock Contest Ubaldo Esteban, runners-up Bite, innovative alt-pop duo Popdad, anthemic post-punk noisniks The Taunts, gravel-voiced bluesmen The Feelmores and the hypnotic African rhythms of the Efua Sey Cultural Academy.

Headlining the main stage will be rap-rock crossover sensations Bushnut, while acclaimed local dance school Hip Hop Pop will perform some gravity-defying moves.

Former Playhouse manager Phil Dale's new theatre group Phoenix will give a preview of their hotly-anticipated debut production of Peter Pan.

Organised by Harlow Town Centre Partnership with financial backing from development firm Stockland, Yates's Wine Lodge, Attwater &amp; Liell Solicitors and pharmaceuticals giant GlaxoSmithKline, the event will also benefit from the technical expertise of The Square and Tones Music Store.

Town centre development manager Richard Dennerly said: "We are very pleased to be able to stage this event again this year.

"It's a great way of bringing people into Harlow to enjoy themselves with some great entertainment, showing their support for home grown talent and doing a bit of shopping at the same time."

Exhibition will help to shape regeneration of town centre

PLANS for a massive overhaul of part of Harlow town centre will go on display next month.

Draft designs and plans for the scheme which will transform the northern end of the town into a bustling leisure quarter will be exhibited for four days, giving residents, business leaders and traders the chance to voice their opinions.

The development team – which involves Harlow Council, Harlow Renaissance and developer Stockland – is also planning a series of briefings and meetings before the exhibition starts and a website will be launched to encourage feedback.

Andy Macdonald, head of major projects for Stockland, said:

"This public exhibition is part of an important and more broad-ranging programme of consultation which we are running during the summer.

"It's about encouraging people with an interest in the town centre to come and meet the development team, to look at our emerging designs and ideas and to tell us what they think. This way we can widen the discussion and, we hope, work towards a stronger set of overall proposals."

Designers hope the regeneration will re-integrate the northern area of the town centre and Market Square quarter with the Harvey Centre and the Water Gardens development to the south.

It includes retail, commercial and residential development alongside transformed public spaces, a new bus interchange, and leisure facilities

The exhibition will be held in the former Dorothy Perkins store in Broad Walk from July 9-11.

Searching for a daring dad

HARVEY Centre bosses are on the hunt for the area's most daring dad.

The shopping mall wants children to nominate their father and say why they believe he is worthy of the title and the chance to hand-feed the big cats at Paradise Wildlife Park, Broxbourne.

Harvey Centre manager Bryan Young said: "We love celebrating with our customers and their families and every year commemorate the special place mothers have in our hearts. But we also believe that dads deserve treating, even though we appear to be less serious about how we go about finding the most deserving candidate.

"After all dads are such an important part of our lives. They help to mould and shape our personalities, they support and guide us throughout the ups and downs of childhood and help us navigate safely into adulthood."

The search for the Daring Dad 2009 closes on Monday (June 15). Children wishing to nominate their dads can email their entry to daringdad@harveycentre.com.

New 'Prime' package offers buyers a quick route to dream home

LOCAL estate agency haart has launched a new scheme called Prime which will allow buyers to purchase a property in just eight weeks.

Haart in Harlow is offering Prime to customers to help them get a head start on selling their properties.

The new package will include a Home Information Pack, an Energy Performance Certificate, title deeds, searches, a draft contract, a Property Information Questionnaire and copies of planning permissions and building regulations consents.

Prime will provide home movers with a package that will enable them to move faster because all or most of the legal information is collected upfront.

Branch manager Shawn Meakins said: "More than 30 per cent of sales fall through between offer and exchange. By shortening the time involved, Prime reduces this risk dramatically.

"Exclusive to haart, Prime provides buyers with as many services in one as possible. This makes the process of buying a property simpler and much quicker, which will help save them money in the long run."

Paul Smith, chief executive of haart which is part of Britain's largest independent estate agency group, added: "Prime reduces delays and removes uncertainty by getting to exchange of contracts sooner.

"It is attractive to buyers because they get substantial savings on conveyancing fees and they can make a speedy purchase. Sellers benefit from a fast exchange of contracts and preferential marketing."

● For further information on purchasing options, contact the Harlow branch of haart on (01279) 443311.

Four-night run for playwright's latest offering

ACCLAIMED local playwright Andrew Prangnell will present his latest full-length drama at Old Harlow's Victoria Hall Theatre next month.

Sandcastles is the gritty tale of three brothers whose strained relationship is pushed to breaking point. It takes an uncompromising look at some of life's bleaker realities.

Opening for a four-night run on the July 8, the play will be Andrew's fourth full-scale production for Harlow Theatre Company for which he has also appeared on stage on numerous occasions.

With a taste for real-life drama, he has already written and directed three highly-successful plays – Daily

Bread, Skeletons and Half Time – and HTC chairman Kyle Jagers is confident he is on to another winner.

"The cast are currently locked in rehearsals which are going extremely well," he said. "Anyone who has followed Andrew's work to date will know he is a fantastic talent.

"Although he came to the theatre quite late, his writing skills are exceptionally original. He dares to go where others wouldn't."

Tickets for the production are available from the theatre box office on (01279) 420062. Alternatively, you can purchase them by sending an email to tickets@harlowtheatrecompany.org.

Sandra to top the bill for Playhouse panto

IT may only be the start of summer but the celebrity line-up for this year's Playhouse Pantomime has finally been revealed.

Heading the cast of this year's production of Cinderella will be Sandra Dickinson, Ben Hanson and Rob McVeigh.

Sandra, who has recently appeared in horror film Tormented and will soon be starring opposite her fiancée in Living TV reality series Four Weddings, will take the role of the Fairy Godmother.

She has appeared in a number of television series, including The Tomorrow People, 2point4 Children and The Hitchhiker's Guide To The Galaxy.

Former builder Rob will be hoping to fare better as Cinderella's Prince than he did in his bid for superstardom when he was voted off in the fifth week of Any Dream Will Do, Andrew Lloyd Webber's TV search for an unknown star to take the lead role in the West End production of Joseph and His Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat.

Completing the line-up playing lovable clown Buttons is CBBC presenter Ben Hanson, who has rarely been off the TV recently with roles in Tracey Beaker and Casualty. This year's panto is being produced by New World Productions, whose managing director Gary Telfet said:

"There's going to be plenty of fun and laughter as well as some amazing singing." Tickets can be booked now from The Playhouse box office on (01279) 31945 or www.playhouseharlow.com.

sound check review

LEAVING The Square on Friday night, I was buzzing with energy after another night's flawless line-up.

First on stage were Galileo, giving The Yeah Yeah Yeahs a run for their money with some blistering, upbeat indie rock. Lead singer Lois grabbed everyone's attention with voice that made Amy Winehouse look like an amateur. With a spot on the bill at Glastonbury lined up, Galileo are certainly heading for the big time.

Alternative pop tykes The Taunts then took to the stage to show everyone that Harlow's youth is still as musically talented as ever. Confidently storming through their set with effortless ease they had the whole crowd rocking along to their infectious guitar solos.

Next up were The Arndaes, who had everyone up on their feet dancing and singing along with some surprisingly catchy lyrics, a perfect warm-up band for the hotly-anticipated headliners.

Never ones to disappoint, indie-pop band Rotating Leslie, pictured right, were once again on top form, wowing the audience with a pitch-perfect set including their much loved hit Fire! Fire! along with a vast range of new material Rotating Leslie have deservedly built up a huge fan base, stretching as far as Los Angeles where they performed a sold-out show at The House Of Blues on Sunset Strip as part of the Muxexpo festival.

Getting everyone dancing and singing along, these much-loved musicians showed they know a thing or two about drawing in an enthusiastic crowd and deserve all the recognition they get.

Blood flows by bucketload in horror remake

new this week

LAST HOUSE ON THE LEFT
certificate 18 1h 50m

BACK IN 1972, unknown writer-director Wes Craven shocked audiences with his grisly rape revenge thriller The Last House On The Left.

Very much a product of its era, the film tackled controversial subject matter on a miniscule budget and reflected the prevailing anti-authoritarian mood in a country bitterly divided over Vietnam. If audiences were stunned by Craven's vision, the censors were horrified. The film was banned in the UK for many years and only became available on video in its uncut form last year.

For Craven it sparked a glorious and highly-lucrative career which has since brought us the delights of such seminal classic as The Hills Have Eyes, A Nightmare On Elm Street and Scream.

The 21st-century remake of Craven's debut is, however, a pointless revisit to a landmark in modern cinema, spruced up with impressive make-up and special effects as two parents declare war on the thugs who brutalise their daughter.

Mari Collingwood (Sara Paxton) and her friend Paige (Martha MacIsaac) flirt with shy teenager Justin (Spencer Treat Clark), who promises the girls a share of his drugs stash if they follow him back to his motel. But the chilled-out mood is shattered when the friends are attacked by Justin's father and his cohorts.

Paige is stabbed to death and Mari is raped and her body left floating in the river. But she manages to paddle home to her parents John (Tony Goldwyn) and Emma (Monica Potter) in the middle of a storm. John, who is a doctor, hurriedly stabilises his daughter's condition but then realises the people sheltering in the guesthouse are those responsible for the attack on his daughter.

Fake blood runs all over this remake and the rape sequence is especially harrowing, justifying the 18 certificate for its brutality.

It is possibly the only point in the film where the director Dennis Iliadis and his screenwriters, Adam Alleca and Carl Ellsworth, exercise restraint. Performances run the gamut of pain, fear and rage without any tangible depth, while Iliadis chooses to bleach the colour palette to accentuate the cold emotions of the characters.

He pulls no punches as Mari's parents seek their revenge, but the main culprit's horrific fate is total overkill.

still showing

TERMINATOR SALVATION: Man battles the machines once again in an all-guns-blazing reboot of the Terminator series, which sows the seeds of a new trilogy charting John Connor's rise to leader of the Resistance in the aftermath of Judgment Day.

DRAG ME TO HELL: After record-breaking box-office success with Spider-Man and its sequels, director Sam Raimi returns to horror – the genre which made his name – with this tongue-in-cheek battle for a young woman's soul.

NIGHT AT THE MUSEUM 2: Ben Stiller and Ricky Gervais return in the sequel to the 2006 family blockbuster. This time the story switches to the largest museum complex in the world, the Smithsonian Institute in Washington DC, where revived pharaoh Kahmunrah aims to take over the world.

ANGELS & DEMONS: Tom Hanks returns as professor Robert Langdon in director Ron Howard's sequel to blockbuster The Da Vinci Code.

CORALINE: Coraline uncovers a secret door leading from the living room to a parallel reality called Other World.

HANNAH MONTANA – THE MOVIE: Perky pop princess Miley Cyrus searches for love in this sentimental rites of passage drama (Saturday/Sunday matinees only).

kids club

BOLT (2D): Since he was a pup, Bolt (voiced by John Travolta) has been the star of a hugely popular TV series in which he plays a genetically engineered canine with superpowers who saves plucky owner Penny (Miley Cyrus) from the clutches of the dastardly Dr Calico (Malcolm McDowell). But once thrust into the real world he embarks on a series of misadventures.

BEDTIME STORIES: Hotel handyman Skeeter Branson (Adam Sandler) is a caring uncle who helps his nephew and niece nod off with imaginative stories. But when he discovers his power to turn fiction into reality, he puts it to improper use.

Stag night excesses leave friends with more than just a headache

KNOCKOUT: Former world heavyweight boxing champion Mike Tyson star as himself in the new comedy THE HANGOVER. Also pictured are Ed Helms, Zach Galifianakis and Bradley Cooper

A STAG night goes hilariously awry in The Hangover, the new comedy from Todd Phillips, writer-director of Road Trip and Old School.

Two days before he is due to walk down the aisle with his beautiful bride, Doug (Justin Bartha) heads for the desert strip of Las Vegas with his three best buddies – Phil (Bradley Cooper), Stu (Ed Helms) and Alan (Zach Galifianakis).

new this week

THE HANGOVER
certificate 15 1h 39m

Several hours of heavy drinking and wild partying ensue and in the morning Phil, Stu and Alan wake with pounding headaches and no memory of events of the night before.

A trashed hotel suite and the presence of a mystery baby are the first signs that something is dreadfully wrong. The absence of the groom-to-be comes a very close second.

As the three friends hazily retrace their alcohol-fuelled steps, they begin to understand quite how much trouble they are in and how unlikely it is that they will be able to get Doug to the church on time to say "I do".

Ready for a scrap?

WE'RE told there's never been a better time to buy a new car — and for once it could be true. STEVE WALKER looks at the latest Vehicle Scrappage Scheme deals

ONCE upon a time, owners of 10-year-old bangers had little to look forward to beyond the occasional, not entirely unexpected breakdown fiasco and an ever-increasing puddle of oil outside their houses. Then the Government introduced its Vehicle Scrappage Scheme and, at a stroke, wrecks that had been cluttering driveways throughout the land gained a value that exceeded their material and practical one: consign an old clunker to the scrapyard in the sky and the Government, supported by the manufacturer, will give you £2,000 off the price of a new car.

Lots has been written and opined about the scrappage scheme. Some say it's good, others are firmly of the opinion that it isn't. What we do know is that it's fired the public's car-buying imagination at a time when confidence was low and unsold new cars were clogging up ports and airfields in ever-expanding numbers.

The final judgement will need to be reserved until the dust settles, but after some initial hiccups the manufacturers are firmly on board and upbeat dealerships are offering big savings on new cars. It looks like a great time to buy, so here's a rundown of what some leading brands have got to offer.

CITROEN

MASTER of the special offer, Citroen was never about to let the scrappage scheme pass off unexploited. Remarkably, it has slashed the price of its Xsara Picasso MPV with a £6,400 cashback deal that, together with the scrappage incentive, brings the effective price down to £7,995. Citroen is also offering a £1,000 discount on all C5 and C6 models in addition to the scrappage bonus.

FIAT

FIAT'S comprehensive range of new cars lends itself to the scrappage scheme. With the necessary Government discount in place, the Panda is now available for under £5,000 in Active ECO guise and the larger Grande Punto costs £6,695 in Active form. Go for the practical new Qubo model and there's a £7,755 price tag when you trade in a 10-year-old model, and the Bravo family hatch could be yours for only £9,995.

FORD

FORD is focusing its discounts on its larger family-sized models. There's £4,500 off the new Mondeo while the Galaxy MPV has £5,000 cut from its asking price. The discounts have been dubbed Scrappage Plus in a bid to assist customers in seeking out the deal that best suits them.

NISSAN

NISSAN'S Sunderland manufacturing plant plays a major part in the economy, producing the Micra, Note and Qashqai models. The Micra is available for £5,995 under the scrappage scheme and Nissan is extending the £2,000 trade-in offer to vehicles of less than eight years in age, so even more motorists will qualify.

PEUGEOT

A SERIES of special edition Peugeot models is being promoted under the scrappage incentive scheme. The 207 Verve special edition guise is available for just £8,740, a £3,300 customer saving. The larger 308 Verve is also available with a £4,300 saving, with the 107 Urban Lite at £5,945.

RENAULT

RENAULT is offering some

Extreme-ly good deals as part of its scrappage scheme promotions. The Clio Extreme supermini has a £3,500 saving on list price while there's a £3,255 saving on the Megane Extreme with the 1.6-litre 100bhp engine. The Grand Scenic Extreme has a £2,500 saving which should make it even more attractive to family buyers.

TOYOTA

TOYOTA is emphasising the British-built status of its cars. The Auris hatchback is produced at the marque's Burnaston plant and, like all of the Toyota models, it's offered under the scrappage scheme.

VAUXHALL

THE whole of Vauxhall's extensive car and van range is subject to a £2,000 discount under the scrappage scheme. There are also supplementary offers such as 5% cashback deals and 0% finance. The British-built Astra is offered in Life trim with a discount of £3,870 in addition to the scrappage scheme incentive.

VOLKSWAGEN

THE Golf and Polo hatchbacks are the focus of the VW dealer offers at the moment, but buyers can also pick up the Fox city car for £4,845 with the £2,000 scrappage discount. The Polo starts at £6,345 and the Golf at £11,585, both rates representing a cheap way into Volkswagen ownership.

VOLVO

THE Volvo models are being made available with some great value finance plans to coincide with the scrappage scheme. The DRIVE versions of the S40 saloon and V50 estate are offered with monthly payments of £300 and £305 respectively. The C30 DRIVE S with Start/Stop technology begins at £210 a month.

Scrap

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle. That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD). A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

Sawbridgeworth 6 runs short of beating leaders

Harpenden 141, Sawbridgeworth 136-7
Match drawn
Home Counties Premier Cricket League, div two east

IT was doubly frustrating for Sawbridgeworth when they were held to a draw at league leaders Harpenden on Saturday.

The visitors fell just six runs short of winning and their disappointment was heightened by pace bowler Joe Hurst's hamstring injury.

HOME COUNTIES PREMIER CRICKET LEAGUE

Nick Lamb and Bradley Moses put on 30 for the first wicket for Harpenden before Michael Burrell trapped the former lbw. Burrell took his second wicket when Moses departed to a brilliant leg-side catch by wicket-keeper Simon Greenall.

A brilliant swinging delivery by Sawbo skipper Danny Wilson accounted for Gregg Cooper, giving the captain his 100th league wicket.

Wickets fell regularly and Ryan Cunningham (8-6-7-2) and Paul James (6-3-10-3) bowled well with the latter returning his best ever figures in the league.

Will Bates (41) top scored for Harpenden. In reply, v Sawbridgeworth were 81-4 and needed 62 from the final 72 balls.

Wilson (37) and Matt Birch (15) added 33 from 53 balls.

A single by Greenall meant Cunningham needed to hit a six to level the score and seal an extra five points but he only managed a single from the last delivery.

Top test next for Harlow

This bought the destructive talent of Jhunjhunwala to the crease.

After he was dropped early on, he made Horndon pay as he smashed 81 from only 38 balls leaping from 50 to 74 in one over as he hit Khurshid for SIX fours.

When Jhunjhunwala was dismissed there was a slight twist in the tail, as Darren Green and McNally fell in quick succession.

However, Nick Butler (44 not out) and Lee Jesse (47 not out) saw the Marigolds men home with 14 overs to spare.

Butler added: "Abhi bowled nicely, but Jason was the star with the ball. He bowled a good pace and had a few of them hopping round the crease.

"When Abhi knocked their overseas player out of the attack he really helped our middle order as Horndon were forced to juggle their bowlers and although we had a little wobble, Nick and Lee really batted beautifully."

In division one of the Essex second XI championship, Harlow (171-9; Simon Baulcomb 50) drew against Wickford (192).

The thirds (214-8) beat Westcliff (212-8) by two wickets in division one and in the 4th XI division three west, Harlow IV (137-6) drew with Harold Wood V (224-5).

In the Sunday league, Harlow (234-5; James Butler, 70, Harry Beddows 65) beat Ford (233-5) by five wickets.

D-Day for premier lifeline

GLEN Alzapiedi will find out on Monday if his side have been given a Ryman premier division lifeline.

The Hawks boss expects to find out at the Ryman League annual meeting whether his side's relegation to division one north has been ratified. If Southern League Merthyr Tdyfil drop out, the divisions could be restructured and Harlow are next in line to move up.

"Whatever league we are in we will find out at the AGM on Monday," Alzapiedi said.

Meanwhile, the Harlow boss is still searching for replacements for goalkeeper James Hasell, striker Jamie Richards and defender Mark Taylor.

He also plans to bring in another striker. "We are looking to get in two strikers and a few midfielders. I have a long list of players." Alzapiedi will not put players on contracts until June 30 when they return for pre-season training.

He expects young midfielders Clark Akers and Tom Bruno to be part of his plans.

The manager anticipates that the club's budget will be reduced if the team are playing in division one north.

But on the plus side he says if the team are winning regularly gates could be far higher than the last two years in the premier division.

He has told fans to expect a very different brand of football next term. "Last season was not my style of football. I want to play the style of football I had at Ware - very quick, lots of movement and lots of emphasis on the technical side of the game. I do believe that will be successful," he added.

Herts & Essex League, div two

A COMPREHENSIVE victory over Thorley maintained Harlow Town's 100 per cent record.

Having been put into bat first on a damp wicket Town made a steady start on Saturday with openers Jason Gladwin (34) and Pat Yates (15) putting on 50 runs.

From a strong position, four wickets fell quickly with Thorley's leg-spinner Ben Dellow claiming three quick scalps.

The Town innings was rebuilt by Ramya Upadhyay (57 not out) and Darryl Pettengell (51) who put on 74 for the fifth wicket.

Pettengell's fine strokeplay and Upadhyay's controlled approach was the turning point of the game as Town stepped on the gas.

After Pettengell was dismissed lbw for 51, skipper Vic Goddard then scored a brisk 49 as he and Upadhyay took the Town total to 236-7 from their 45 overs.

In reply, Town immediately had Thorley on the back foot with Ashley Alderson (3-26)

GOT YA: Thorley wicket-keeper Peter Phillips goes close to claiming the key wicket of Harlow Town's Ramya Upadhyay (BHLPSYXB-01) and Dan Calver (2-11) reducing them to 15-4.

Neil Edwards (21) attempted to take the attack back to Town with some fine shots before he lost his off stump to Alderson's bowling. Last man Dellow made 29 not out.

Alderson took three wickets and with Simon Rowell and Shane Hooper also claiming two wickets apiece Town cruised to another 26 points as Thorley were dismissed for just 98.

Harlow Town IIs beat Hatfield Heath by 53 runs to claim joint top spot in division four.

James Hayter hit 53 as Town scored 170-7.

David Pistorius helped Town dismiss Heath for 110 with three wickets.

Harlow Town IIIs (220-3) kept up their winning run in division seven with a 57-run defeat of Three Caps (163).

The Norcott brothers Ashley and Wade shone for Town. Ashley struck 82 not out and Wade blasted an unbeaten 52.

In division three, Potter Street (193-9) lost by eight runs at Roding Valley (201-7).

Hawks freeze tickets

HAWKS fans can cash in at Harlow Town FC after ticket prices were frozen for home games in 2009-10.

As the credit crunch continues to bite, the club will allow all fans aged under 16 FREE entry to the club's home league games for the entire season.

Other matchday admission prices have been frozen, while the club has taken away the seating charges that were in operation last term in a bid to save fans even more money.

Adults' matchday admission tickets are priced at £9 each, while concessions are admitted for £5.

Season ticket prices have been set with the aim of saving supporters money on individual matchday tickets.

Season tickets allow admission for the bearer to all home league games for the first team and reserves.

An adult season ticket costs £160, while concessions can pick one up for £75.

This season, the club is also operating a VIP Seated Season Ticket service, enabling ticket holders to personally select their own seat for the season.

Bubbly Bruno can be a knockout

Welcome to Inside Track, our column that gives you the reader an insight into Harlow Greyhound Stadium as our top tipster reveals his favourites for tomorrow (Friday June 12).

BUBBLY BRUNO, a recent recruit to the graded scene at Harlow, has been handed a golden opportunity to open his account. Although he is yet to taste success since arriving, he has shown promise on a couple of occasions and now looks ready to strike.

He is the only wide runner in the 10.30pm contest and can land the spoils with a strong run from the third bend.

At first glance, the stayers contest at 8.15pm looks a race to avoid with six out-of-form animals in the line-up.

However, on closer inspection the trap 2 runner NOBLES PRANG could be one to get stuck into.

This ex-Walthamstow greyhound looks certain to lead early and nothing in the race is in the form to be able to catch him.

Friday June 12 selections: 7.30pm Bowmers Glen; 7.45pm Dainty Swift; 8pm Slipper; 8.15pm Nobles Prang; 8.30pm Splinter Freddie; 8.45pm Dods Blue Eyes; 9pm Ardmayle Lass; 9.15pm Zante; 9.30pm Joy And Pain; 9.45pm Numbers Man; 10pm Ontheriver Queen; 10.15pm Jiggy Jazz; 10.30 Bubbly Bruno.

Disappointing start in summer league

Squash

THE Herts Summer Squash League began with a disappointing start for both the Annor Harlow teams.

Both sides suffered 3-0 losses, although four of the six games went the full distance and could have gone either way.

The first team played host to Allenbury Squash Club from Ware.

First string Ian Gould could not keep pace with his opponent for the first two sets, losing 8-15, 6-15.

But a strong recovery saw him level the score by winning the next two sets 15-9, 15-9. However, he could not keep up the pressure and lost the deciding set 8-15.

Second string Dan Collision also had to come back from a 0-2 deficit. Having lost the first two sets 7-15, 13-15 he battled back to win the next two 15-13, 15-13.

But he lost the deciding set 15-11.

Third string Andy Davis found his opponent too strong and lost 10-15, 13-15, 10-15.

The second team played host to Harpenden.

First string Vinh Tram lost 3-2.

Second string Peter Iszatt lost a pulsating match 13-15, 15-12, 13-15, 15-9, 11-15.

Third string Richard Lewis lost 3-0.

Double celebration for Harlow athletes

With the match already won, the 4x400m relay team came second in 3:46.7.

Harlow finished the four-team meeting on 101 points, ahead of second-placed Havering & Mayesbrook, Milton Keynes and West Suffolk. The win moved Harlow into fifth position in the league.

Other results: 100m – Carl Paxman 12.0s 2nd A; David Marriott 12.1s 2nd B. 200m – Marriott 24.5s 3rd A; Ty Roberts 26.2s 4th B. 800m – Solomon 2:12.7 2nd A; Marriott 2:36.7 4th B. 1,500m – Solomon 4:30.7 2nd A; Mistry 4:32.6 1st B. High jump – Glen Paxman 1.55m 3rd A; Carl Paxman 1.40 3rd B. Pole vault – Glen Paxman 2.00m 4th A. Javelin – Snook 39.92m 2nd A; Carl Paxman 34.39 2nd B. Shot put – Paul Avontuur 9.66m 3rd A; Glen Paxman 8.45m 3rd B.

Canons Brook golfer skips Essex

JOHN Withington showed impressive form when he came second in the Keith Bass Trophy.

The 12-year-old Canons Brook Golf Club member was Essex captain in the U-14 Inter County Championship at Ufford Park in Woodbridge, Suffolk.

In the 27-hole scratch and handicap competition, John, playing off 6, scored 119. Jack Turner (Beds) was first on 117.

John and Jack both shot 37 in a windy morning nine-hole round. The wind continued to play its part for the afternoon 18 holes which saw Jack fire 80 and John go round in 82.

Thirty-two golfers from Essex, Bedfordshire, Suffolk and Norfolk competed.

Mark Smith, John's coach, said: "John did very well bearing in mind he was quite a big younger than a few of the other boys."

"His attitude towards the game and others is excellent, he needs to work hard and keep improving his short game as he gets older. He doesn't need to worry about distance – in the Keith Bass Trophy he hit one drive over 340 yards."

The Stewards School student will play in the English U-14s Championship at The Kendleshire Golf Club in Bristol, the Essex U-14s at Maylands Golf Club and the Essex Boys U-18s at Thorndon Park Golf Club this summer.

Canons Brook Golf Club junior team won their first two matches in the 2009 Essex Golf Union Youth Shield competition (U-18s).

They beat Loughton 4-1 and Hainault Forest 5-0. Wins were recorded by John Withington, making his debut, club captain Steve Jones, Daniel Goddard, Owen Rivett, Simo White and Michael Lane.

Mixed fortunes for Rockets ace

Speedway

SPEEDWAY star Luke Bowen experienced mixed fortunes as his Rye House Rockets team embarked on a northern tour which took in three Premier League matches in as many days.

The Harlow racer was in blistering form in the 50-42 defeat against Edinburgh on Friday night, but then suffered a shoulder injury in the following day's 51-42 reverse at Berwick, which ruled him out for the final meeting on Sunday – as the Hoddesdon team went down 48-42 but picked up their first away point of the season (for losing by only six points).

At Edinburgh, Bowen, right, was riding as reserve and maintained his own excellent recent form with a win and a paid eight tally.

The Rockets were level at 12-12 at Heat 4 following victories by Andrew Silver and Bowen, and could well have led at that point.

But the league champions took a grip in the middle of the fixture. Successive 5-1s pushed them eight points clear at Heat 6 and a third maximum advantage in Heat 10 appeared to have taken the match out of Rockets' reach at 36-24.

However, the Rockets fought back to narrow the deficit with Bowen producing a tremendous race to keep Aaron Summers at the back.

The Monarchs replied with a 4-2 of their own in Heat 13, only for Rockets to respond with a comfortable 5-1.

That set up the decider, where Chris Neath and Linus Sundstrom came so close to completing the job.

Disaster struck for Bowen at Berwick on Saturday night. The Harlow racer reared on the second bend of Heat 6 in his fourth outing of the night and collided heavily with Sundstrom, suffering a shoulder muscle injury in the process.

The injury ruled Bowen – who had collected just one point from his previous three outings – out for the remainder of the match.

He had to withdraw from the Glasgow fixture after the injury stiffened up overnight but is aiming to return for the Rockets two clashes against the Somerset Rebels in the Knockout Cup.

Hogg feasts on milestone win

Darts

ALEX Hogg triumphed in the 30th Harlow Owls Open Darts Knockout last Saturday.

Some 120 entrants toed the oche at midday for the event, sponsored by Sawbridgeworth Brewery for the sixth successive year.

The competition first started at Harlow Town Football Club's old Sportcentre ground in 1979 and once again attracted a strong field of players from far and wide.

Tony Course (Suffolk), the 2008 winner, was on course to defend his title until losing out on his board final.

Best lady on the day was Donna Russell (Barking). She won her board but eventually lost out in the quarter-final to Damian Green.

For the first time in the history of the competition all four semi-finalists came from Harlow.

The first semi-final saw a father and son confrontation with Ron Green facing son Damian Green. Experience counted as dad Ron triumphed 4-3.

The second semi-final pitched Alex Hogg against Mick McNally. Hogg took this match 4-3.

The final was the best of nine legs and Hogg emerged with the silverware after a 5-3 win against Ron.

Highest outshot of the day was 160 from two players: Graham Dando (Kent) and losing finalist Ron Green.

Top test to come

Butler ready for promotion crunch match

A STRONG test of Harlow's promotion credentials will come when they take on high-flying Hadleigh & Thundersley at home this Saturday.

Harlow, who lie in third spot and a point behind Hadleigh, go into the weekend's clash after a resounding league win at Horndon-on-the-Hill.

Skipper James Butler said: "We are back at Marigolds this weekend for a really important game, facing a Hadleigh and

Horndon-on-the-Hill 219, Harlow 220-5

Harlow won by four wickets
Shepherd Neame Essex League, division two

Thundersley side who, like us have won three from four games.

"We are two points behind them in third spot, so it will be a good game. However, it is still very early on in the season and the promotion spots will not come down to just one game, but over the whole season so we will just look to be consistent."

On Saturday, Horndon batted first and slipped to 47-4 with Harlow bowler Jason McNally taking three of the first four wickets and Luke Heskett the other.

The experienced Dave Stitson and Andrew Hilditch restored some order.

Stitson combined stoic defence with lusty straight hitting and Hilditch quietly accumulated his runs.

Harlow's Indian overseas player Abhishek Jhunjhunwala bowled Hilditch for 40 but Stitson went on to score an excellent 71 before being caught well by Kalim Zada at mid on.

There was some effective hitting down the order as Horndon posted a respectable 219. Heskett (4-38) and McNally (4-49) were Harlow's most successful bowlers.

Harlow's reply started poorly as Rehman Ahmed gloved one from Horndon's pacey overseas seamer Qasim Khurshid to the home wicket-keeper for 3.

Double celebration for Harlow athletes

THERE was more than one reason to celebrate when Harlow Athletic Club won its Senior Men's Southern League match.

Saturday's meeting at Wodson Park in Ware also saw Dave Bauer improve his own club record.

His massive throw of 41.70m in the A discus ensured a comfortable win for Bauer who was already ranked 5th in the country in the men's veteran 40 rankings.

The previous record of 41.49m was set by Bauer in 2007 at his England international masters debut.

"It's brilliant for Dave to be achieving this type of distance again after injury seemed to end his throwing career in 2008, particularly since he still is not completely fit," said team manager Catherine Bauer, who is Dave's wife. Bauer was also second in the A string hammer (31.83m).

Chris Clark won the B hammer (22.13m) and came second in the B discus (24.00m).

Double wins came in the 400m hurdles for Steve Down (A 68.4s) and Lloyd Ellis (B 69.7s) and in the 400m by Glen Paxman (A 52.5s) and Carl Paxman (B 56.2s).

Added to this were wins in the 1,500m by Jamie Solomon (4:30.7) and Liam Mistry

TRACK STAR: Glen Paxman storms through in the 400m at Ware's Wodson Park on Saturday (ACZCRLXV.05). Inset, his twin brother Carl Paxman (4:32.6).

In the 110m hurdles there was a win for Down (B 18.8s). Lloyd Ellis was 2nd in the A event (19.4s).

Further double wins came in the long jump from Glen (B 5.73m) and Carl (A 5.85m), and triple jump (Glen - A 12.05m, Carl - B 11.70m).

There was a string of second and third places, while Ciaran McGrath's A string 4th spot earned extra points in the 5,000m (23:44.0).

In the 4x100m relay, the team of Ellis, Down and the Paxmans won in 46.6s.

In the 3,000m steeplechase, Down (12:40.7) and Craig Snook (14:37.6) were third and second respectively in the A and B events.

Long-distance lorry driver Down only had two hours sleep after working most of the previous night.

"In some past matches steeple has been the team's downfall and I wasn't prepared to put in a whole day's work to lose it like that," he said.
